

What Can a Catholic Learn from Islam?

Matthew Sudnik

January 10, 2010

January 10, 2010

MATTHEW SUDNIK

Matthew Sudnik is a young adult who recently spent some time in Egypt. Matthew teaches at Central Catholic H.S. He is a graduate from Harvard University Divinity School with a Masters in Theological Studies in Christianity and Culture and received his Bachelors Degree from the Catholic University of America. Matthew has helped cities in the U.S. develop Peace Camp for children, teens, and collegians.

The Long Journey

Dr. James Paharik

February 7, 2010

February 7, 2010

DR. JAMES PAHARIK

James G. Paharik, Ph.D, is a member of the sociology faculty at Seton Hill University. He writes and teaches in the areas of comparative genocide and peace studies. Dr. Paharik is director of research and curriculum design for Beit Benedict Peace Academy. His recently published book, The Long Journey: In Search of Justice and Peace in Jerusalem, was the fruit of his 2007 sabbatical in the West Bank.

Transforming Conflicts:

In My Home

& Around the Globe

(This workshop will include activities for young adults, adults, and families.)

Rick Polhamus is a member of the Christian Peacemaker Team. He is this organization's representative to the World Council of Churches. Rick has worked in the Middle East over the past 9 years. He has training and experience in violence reduction, conflict resolution and transformation, negotiation, and mediation. When home in the U.S., he is often traveling to speak at conferences, universities, churches, synagogues and mosques about such topics as: Theology of Nonviolence and Peacemaking; Living in a Global Community; Humor in Peacemaking; Living a Theology of Love; Conflict Transformation and Resolution. He also works for the Church of the Brethren on a national level as a member of the Youth Peace Retreat Leadership Team of On Earth Peace and leads conflict transformation trainings and mediates conflict for the Ministry of Reconciliation. He has participated in many Disaster Response projects and worked on Habitat for Humanity. Rick lives with his wife on a small farm in Miami County, Ohio, and enjoys spending time with his children and grandchildren.